May 2012

This month we examine two pieces of software, plus cover other issues that come up.

1. The first piece of software is made to specifically find and remove security software. As an added bonus, the software will try to remove any botched uninstalls of security software. If you think there are files leftover App Remover will find and remove them. A description is located at:

We'll also discuss the latest version of Microsoft Security Essentials.

2. The second piece of software is a very useful package. A description is at:
